BRILLIANT NUPTIALS PARDONS FOR AT BIG SPRING. POWERS AND HOWARD

Beautiful Church Wedding Last Evening At Methodist Church In Presence Of Many Guests.

HANDSOME HOME RECEPTION.

A most beautiful wedding was that of Miss Olla Mae Clarkson and Dr. A. M. Hardaway, which took place last evening at 8:30 o'clock at the Methodist Episcopal church at Big Spring.

Some time before that hour the church was filled with the friends of the young couple and before the arrival of the bridal party a musical program was rendered. Miss L. Clarkson sang "Loves Token" and just prior to the entering of the party "Cupid Will Guide" was sung by Mrs. Milton Lovewell, of Louisville.

The wedding breakfast in masses of foliage and potted plants. Plants were also grouped around the church. In the sides were arranged posts trimmed with green, supporting bunches of white flowers tied with white tape. Over the entire altar where the bridal party stood was a canopy of smilax.

The wedding march announced the arrival of the bridal party. They entered the church led by two ushers, Harry H. Kemper, of Irvington, and Piero Hardaway, of Bewleyville. Then came Mr. Philip Carter, of Jacksonville, Fla., and Wm. Hogan, of Chicago. The maid of honor, Miss Etelia West Jacobie, of Milwaukee, came next, unaccompanied. She was followed by Mrs. Harry Kemper, matron of honor. She preceded the bride and her brother, Mr. Ben Clarkson. They were met at the chancel by the groom and his best man, Frank Thompson, of North Dakota.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. B. Overton, of Campbellsburg, and during the service Rubenstein's Melody in F sharp, was played.

The bride wore an exquisite lace robe made over satin and chiffon. It was made of point applique, empire style, with three flounces of lace finishing the bottom. It was cut with a graceful train and had a transparent veil which was carried by a French bouquet of lilles.

Mrs. Kemper wore her wedding gown of chiffon over taffeta. She carried an arm bouquet of lilles and in her hair was a spangled eglantine.

The maid of honor wore a pink creation made empire. She carried an arm bouquet of sweet peas and her hair was beautifully dressed in Grecian bands.

Mrs. Hardaway was unusually attractive in a pink and white dress made princess. It was trimmed in pink satin bands and had a sash of pink satin. She also carried a bouquet of pink sweet peas and wore a Grecian hair ornament.

Following the wedding ceremony was an elaborate reception given at the hospitable home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Julia Clarkson. The house was artistically decorated in Japanese lanterns and decorations. The dining room was the most beautiful of all, a canopy of smilax occupying the room.

The bride's cake was stood on a table to itself and was oblong in shape, on top of it was a pink candy basket and twenty pink ribbons hung from the cake, which contained the thimble.

The bride's gift to her maid were lovely pearl pins.

Dr. and Mrs. Hardaway left immediately for their home in North Dakota.

Greatly Amused.

Dr. A. A. Glanous has been greatly amused during the last two weeks over the entertaining stories about the date on the terrapin. He says the Cannon Telephone should have made his age 71, which would have been more exciting than making his age appear several years more than it really is.

For the next two weeks we will give one beautiful enlargement with each dozen cabinets for $3.—Brabandt.

PARDONS CAUSE EXCITEMENT.

Frankfort, Ky., June 13.—At 8 o'clock this morning McKenzie Todd, private secretary to Gov. Wilson, sent word to all Frankfort newspaper correspondents to come quickly to the Executive office, where the Governor would soon ready to announce his decision upon the applications for pardons made by James Howard and Caleb Powers.

Not long after the Governor appeared and both men were pronounced pardoned. Howard was serving a life sentence, while Powers, thrice convicted, had been granted a new trial. It is said Powers will go to Chicago to attend the National Convention.

The public was jubilant. In masses of foliage and potted plants. Plants were also grouped around the church. In the sides were arranged posts trimmed with green, supporting bunches of white flowers tied with white tape. Over the entire altar where the bridal party stood was a canopy of smilax.

CUPID'S PRANKS AND SOCIAL NEWS.

June brides are now far in dreamland, some riding in touring cars, in ocean steamers, in pullman cars, in rubber-tire run-a-bouts and others happily walking a dirt road to a magistrate's office. It matters not the way, each one is going toward that blissful event of her life—her wedding day. Planning her trousseau, dreaming of her presents, and adoring her prince-charming. A sweet dream—from which to be awakened by the call, "Come in!" And what that means, only time can tell.

Twenty-three guests made the linen shower in honor of Miss Moorman given by Miss Severs, one of the most merry and most enjoyable of the entertainments given for the bride-to-be. As the guests arrived they were received by Miss Louise Babbage and Miss Severs stood at the head of the receiving line and introduced them to Miss Moorman, Mrs. Bennett, Miss Nancy Kincheloe and Miss Lillie Waller. Miss Ray Heyser presided at the punch bowl. The house looked beautiful decorated in cut flowers, the color-scheme, green and white, being carried out in the decorations and also in the refreshments.

Most interesting was the flower garden in the reception room which was made up of linen presents for the bride. Miss Severs was invited to dig into the garden of green and dashes and she found at the root of each blossom an exquisite gift of love and linen. Immediately after the presents were opened a magazine article on linen was read by Mrs. Harry Newton. Before the guests departed Mr. Chas. Moorman took several snapshots of the party.

The Fighting Chance.

"I drink to your health, Stephen," she said under her breath. "I drink to your fortune, and to all that you desire from me. And she raised her glass in the sunlight looking over it into his eyes.

"I drink to your health, Stephen."

"All—almost all!"

"No, all," he demurred. But she only raised the glass to her lips, still looking at him as she drank.

They became unreasonably gay almost immediately, and the desire was born to leap into their veins.

Lella exchanged glance after glance with Plank, Steward, the leader in it all, then the enchanted listener, bewitched, entranced, felt care slipping from his shoulders as though a heart, a soul, a spirit from a heart that was beating strongly, steadily, fearlessly—as a heart should beat in the breast of him who has taken at last his life's fighting chance. He took it now under her eyes and in full view of all, and the dead which had made manhood no longer an empty term lay in desecration by a sick body and a mind too sick to control it.

Yes, at last the lifelong battle was on. He knew it. He knew that when ever he met with a woman without her he must always go on with the battle for the safeguarding of that manhood the consciousness of which she had aroused.

All he knew was that, through the medium of his love for her, whatever in him had been generated, now was active, strong, vital, insatiable; an impulsive current flowing from a wise intelligence, through medium of her, back to the eternal truth, returning always, always, to the deathless source from whence it came.

Thinking over the fruit, the champagne breaking in the glasses standing on the table between them, rim to rim, Lella and Plank had fallen into a low, desultory, yet guarded exchange of words and silences.

Steward, leaning and pushed her chair into the farther corner against the balcony rail, where no light fell except the radiance of the stars. Here Steward joined her, dragging his chair around so that it faced her as she leaned back, tilted against a shadowy corner.

In the darkness his hand encountered hers on the wooden rail, and the tremor of the contact silenced her. She freed one finger, let it rest with its slender fingers before prisoners. There was no use in trying to speak just now, so she waited, her voice soft, rounded throat unfeigned or the swelling pulses that tightened and hammered and tightened.

Years seemed to fall away from her, slipping back, back into girlhood, into childhood, days of innocence, when the girls who did not carry him with her. An exquisite languor held her. Twisting deliciously, she eyes some times meeting his, sometimes lost in the magic of her reverie, she lay there.

in her chair, her unresisting fingers locked in his. Other thoughts came hovering to her favorite—thoughts that seemed distant, familiar, the direct, unconscious impulses of a child. To feel was once more the only motive for expression; to think fearlessly was to confess nakedness. Her desire was to draw him closer, lie naively, and ask for what she wished.

"Don't look!" whispered Steward, drawing Sylvia back.

He and she both had put their shoulders to the terrace along with the others, and now they stood there together in the shifting lantern light, sickened, giddy, dazed, with the stars, staring at the gathering crowd around that shapeless lump on the grass.

"Weigh it with the other—there," he said. "I have—often—every moment since I have known you. And what a winter! Her voice was almost inaudible.

"With a winter like this, the stars,

"—what is ended for me too, Sylvia. I know what I ask. And what do you give?"

"Weigh it with the other—there," he said. "I have—often—every moment since I have known you. And what a winter! Her voice was almost inaudible.

DEFEAT, YET VICTORY.

Breckenridge Democrats, as a rule, are sensible and informed and represent the best thought of their party. Notwithstanding this, they have, in a half approving manner, submitted to "machine domination" for the past few years.

While loyal to Gov. Beckam, as a county, the sentiment of the great majority, beyond doubt, were tired of the jibbling of leaders and joined in the united demand of Kentucky Democracy for harmony. Notwithstanding these existing conditions, the handful of officers, politicians and their henchmen who met in the County Convention defeated Judge Morman—the who the week before had written a magnificent Democratic editorial advocating harmony, the return of power from the centralized inner circle, and the people and other sound Democratic doctrine that were unanimously endorsed by a United Democracy at the State Convention. While this young man may be so strenuous as to be a partisan, while his editorial denunciations of things he does not approve are forcible and direct, it nevertheless remains a fact that he is one of the far-sighted young Democrats of Kentucky with sound convictions and the fearlessness to express them, even at the sacrifice of present personal preferment. He stands on principle, and even if he was overridden here in his desires to have the convention endorse McCleary, Hallenberg and Woodson along with Beckam, James and Armon, his ideas were vindicated at Lexington, and are appreciated by a majority of Breckinridge county Democrats. He is the type of man the people need in politics.

Cloverport is on the verge of having another business plant, and if the Howard Manufacturing Company gets sufficient encouragement, this city will be chosen as the place for it. The company has already decided to make headquarters here for the summer. The members are Kentucky men, two of them, Messrs. Howard of Breckinridge county, and the other Mr. Bogard, formerly from Trigg county. They are soliciting no stockholders; all they want is the good will of Cloverport, which will surely be given them by each and every citizen. May the Howard Manufacturing Company come to our town, settle here and make good.

What people can do when they exercise determined efforts can be proved by the success that Mr. and Mrs. Nielsen have made in improving Tar Springs. Despite the bad roads and rainy weather this last spring, they have gotten the resort into better shape than it ever before has been. Breckinridge county could be very proud to have such a beautiful spot within its boundaries, and unfortunate would be the person who cannot visit the springs this summer. Judge Morman and Road Overseer Ballman are to be commended for taking prompt action last week in having the roads worked, and it is hoped that every mud-hole and hill will be given best attention. Tar Springs does not only mean a place of rest for the people, but it means pleasure and profit as well. Thousands of dollars will have been spent there when the season closes, and every cent of it will come either directly into the business channels of this and surrounding counties. Let us visit the springs, advertise the resort and keep it going.

WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO.

Their Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong And Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 100 grains of waste products daily. When unhealthy, some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms—pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel, disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, deposits in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filters right you will have no trouble with your kidneys.

J. J. Dyer, living in Cloverport, Ky., says: "I have kept Doan's Kidney Pills constantly in the house for over ten years and have never found a remedy that would equal them. Three years ago my back was so lame and sore that I was scarcely able to straighten after assuming a sitting position. Whenever I contracted the slightest cold it would settle on my kidneys and greatly aggravate my suffering. A few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills have never failed to bring complete relief, and my wife has also used them with excellent results. I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Fisher's drug store, and it gives me great pleasure to recommend them to other persons afflicted with kidney complaint."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Notice.

All persons having claims against the estate of Isaac Blair, deceased, are hereby notified to produce the same before me, properly proven, on or before July 1, 1908.

A NY remedy that benefits digestion strengthens the nerves.

The nerve centers require nutrition. If the circulation is impaired, the nerves become anaemic, and indigestion is the result.

Peruna is not a nervine nor a stimulant. It benefits the nerves by helping digestion.

Peruna frees the stomach of catarrhal congestions and normal digestion is the result.

In other words, Peruna goes to the bottom of the whole difficulty, when the disagreeable symptoms disappear.

Mrs. J. C. Jamison, of Marchantstreet, Watsonville, Cal., writes:

"I was treated with Peruna for six years. I tried many kinds of medicine, also was treated by three doctors.

"They said that I had nervous dyspepsia. I was put on a liquid diet for three months.

L. W. Jones, manager of the Postal Telegraph Company at Louisville, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Noble Saturday. He is a son-in-law of Mr. Vic Culley.

"Improved under the treatment, but as soon as I stopped taking the medicine, I again had again.

"I took the medicine for two years, then I got sick again and gave up all hopes of getting cured.

"I saw a testimonial of a man whose case was similar to mine being cured by Peruna, so I thought I would give it a trial.

"I procured a bottle at once and commenced taking it. I have taken several bottles and am entirely cured.

"I have gained in strength and feel like a different person. I believe Peruna is all that is claimed for it.

Nervines, such as coal tar preparations, are doing a great deal of harm. Sleep medicine, while it may be of service, also is all heart depressants, and should not be used. The nerves would be all right if the digestion were good. Peruna corrects the digestion.

Business Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness and that is by constitution of remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Cather, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

PRE-INVENTORY RED TAG SALE!

Monday, June 22, 1908. Two Days of Bargains. Tuesday, June 23, 1908

OUR STOCK IS BOUND TO GO!

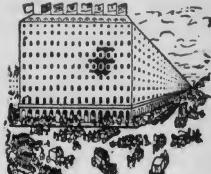

This is not a Banquet but a Bargain Feast spread to help your pocketbook. You are invited, so are your friends.

On the house tops watching our Red Tag Sale.

Every cent you invest will go for honest and reliable goods at Red Tag Prices. Come and save money enough to be merry over. We want to say that you will get more for your money than you ever got before. No other store can or will duplicate these bargains. They were bought for Cash and will be sold that way. You never have had such an opportunity and never will again.

To assist our customers in making their purchases, and save time for ourselves, each Bargain will be designated by a Red Tag. On it will be marked former price and also Red Tag Price. Watch for them, and you will find them in each department and lots of them. Almost every article in the store will wear a Red Tag, and on account of these Low Prices we will charge no Red Tag goods on regular accounts, as they will be sold Strictly for Cash. We hope every body will understand this thoroughly, as we do not wish to embarrass any one. The store will positively not be opened before 8:30 a. m. each morning. This will enable people living at a distance to get here in time to get their share of the best offerings each day. Space forbids us itemizing each Bargain, but a few of the many will show you that you will make no mistake by coming here on Monday and Tuesday, June 22 and 23, 1908.

Our Red Tag Sale Will Draw the Crowd.
